

Presstext - Edgaar

Edgaar is a DJ and producer from Osnabrück, who gained a lot of attention with his song “Believer” (over 550,000 streams). With his productions and co-productions Edgaar quickly stood out and pleased every listener with over 700,000 streams only on Spotify.

Many organizers quickly found out about Edgaar’s intensive work and booked him for clubs such as “Nize Club Osnabrück”, “52° Club”, “Residenz Club Paderborn”, where he headlined an entire event, and many others.

Edgaar’s music is known for his happy melodies, tight drums, leading basslines, as well as recognisable vocals which are easy to sing along - a load of house mixed with key elements of Dance, Pop & Tech House which have been supported by superstar producers such as TwoLOUD, DJs from Mars, Calvo, Bombs Away and Germany’s most famous future house label “Future House Cloud”.

Titled as the next “Robin Schulz”, Edgaar was interviewed regarding his amazing success and enormous plans as a DJ and producer by the Neue Osnabrücker Zeitung (NOZ) (Date: 24th June 2020). Moreover, Edgaar also has international blogposts about his music.

Edgaar also appeared on the 473rd edition of the magazine “Stadtblatt Osnabrück”, where he was interviewed regarding his self-organised festival called “Stampffabrik”. In the series “NEXT PLEASE” by OS-Radio 104.8, Edgaar talked about his domestic rise to popularity by sharing his insights to the listeners.
